
The craziest bond ever issued, looming recession worries, and why WeHubbed

It's time for a new episode of Stocks Neat, the podcast with nothing watered down.

In June's episode of Stocks Neat, Steve and Gareth discuss a 100-year Austrian bond issued in 2017, before diving into the market commentary around a recession and how it might be different from others. And after Forager's recent office move, the guys also chat about the concept of shared office spaces.

"There are some big lessons here for the rest of the asset pool, and some of them don't feel like they're getting the message on what's happening in bonds," says Gareth. "You're also seeing it in parts of the equity market where the prices have gotten very realistic very quickly."

Our whisky of choice this month is something a little more accessible than our previous tipples; Steve popped next door to Vintage Cellars to pick up Laphroaig's Islay Single Malt Whisky. Tune in and join the team.

We'd love your feedback. If you like what you're hearing (and what we're drinking), be sure to follow and subscribe - we're doing this every month.

Drink of choice:

10 year Islay Single Malt from Laphroaig

You can listen on:

Spotify

Apple

Buzzsprout

YouTube